

British Prime Minister Starts Visit to Moscow

By HAROLD K. MILKS
MOSCOW (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan flew to Moscow today for talks with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin.

Macmillan, 64, told newsmen in London just before boarding a Comet IV jetliner.

"I am not going to negotiate. I have no authority for that," the Macmillan 64, told newsmen in London just before boarding a Comet IV jetliner.

"I certainly am not going to try to search out secrets. We are going to search out the hearts and minds of the Russian leaders to see how far we can make contact with them."

Macmillan carried with him gifts for Khrushchev, but they were a well kept secret.

The British statesman seemed in a cautiously optimistic mood.

"I don't know how much success we will have—we will certainly try. Of this I am sure, though: personal talks and contact are very valuable in international life today."

Western diplomats here are not looking for any firm decisions—or sweeping new proposals—to come out of the talks in which British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will take part.

There was a widespread feeling here, however, that frank discussions could help eliminate any false ideas either side may have of the other's position.

Germany and particularly Berlin stood out as the immediate pressing issue to be dealt with but the two leaders are expected to cover the whole range of East-West international differences.

Soviet newspapers this morning welcomed Macmillan's visit which Macmillan sought himself at this time as a "reconnaissance mission."

The Communist party organ Pravda said the two great powers "could make an important joint contribution to the solution of important international problems."

Citizenship of Costello Is Revoked

NEW YORK (AP)—The citizenship of Frank Costello was revoked today by U. S. Dist. Judge Archie O. Dawson.

Costello, 68, currently is serving a five-year sentence for federal income tax evasion.

The government has waged a long legal battle to strip from Costello the U. S. citizenship it claimed he obtained through fraud and misrepresentation in 1925.

Judge Dawson's action paved the way for what is expected to be the government's next move—to deport Costello to his native Italy.

The government had tried once before to denaturalize him. The case was thrown out by a federal court in 1936 on the ground that the government evidence was "permeated with the fruit of illegal wire taps."

The government then set out again to achieve its goal employing evidence it said was not obtained by wiretaps.

Costello long has been regarded as one of the topmost men in the underworld, and at one time was dubbed his "prime minister."

This became familiar to the many millions of Americans a few years ago during the nationally televised New York hearings on crime conducted by the U. S. Senate committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Only Costello's voice was heard during his witness chair appearance because of his demand that his face not be shown. Viewers now and then caught a glimpse of his hands as he gesticulated with Rudolf Halley, chief counsel of the committee.

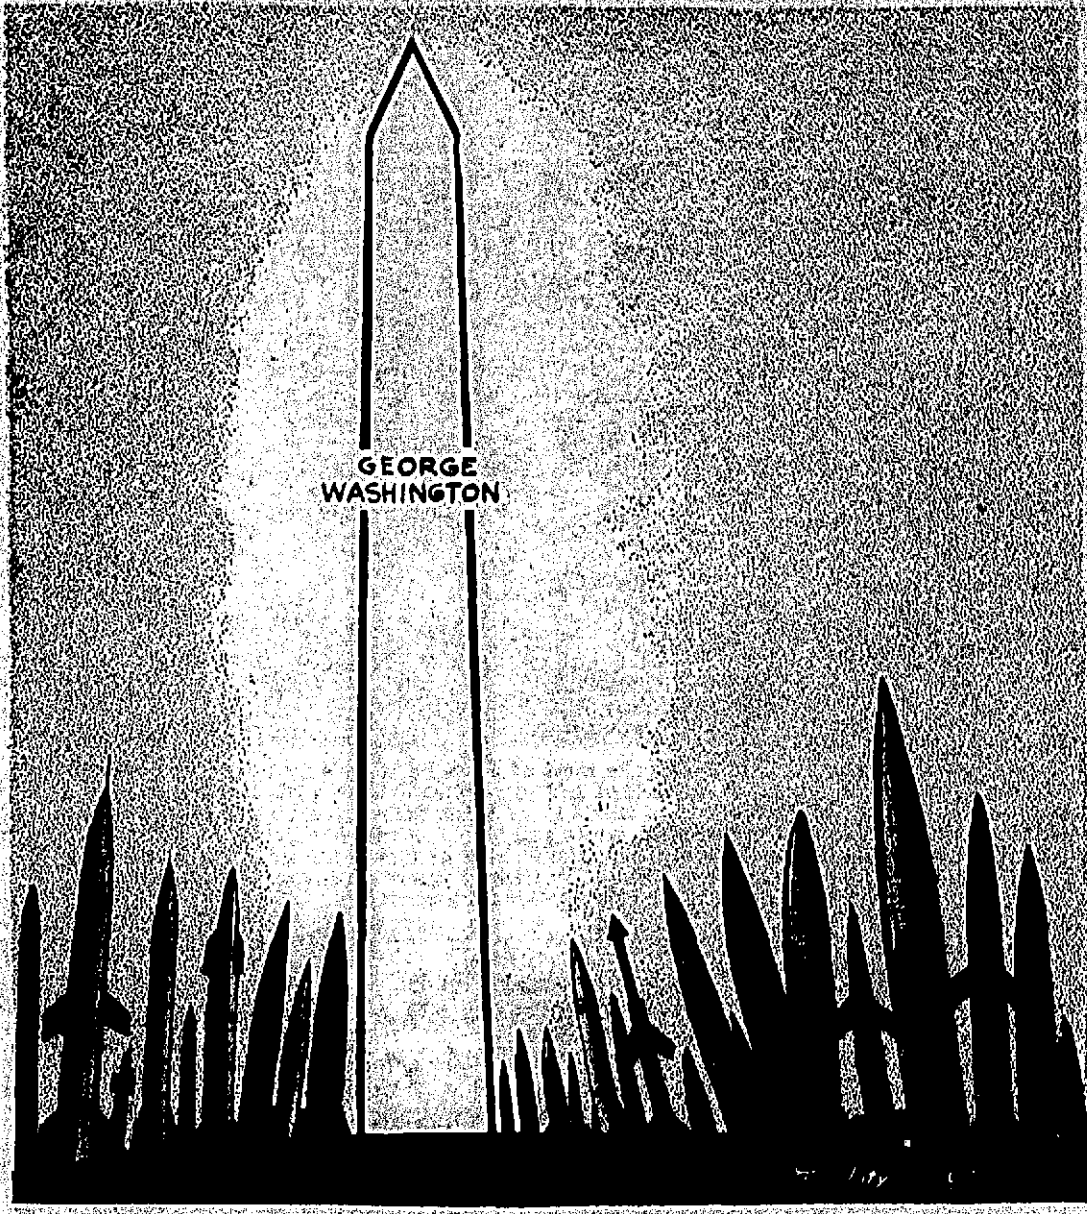

Voodoo Causes Negro to Take Own Life
LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — "My stomach boiled all the time. There were lizards in my stomach. I decided to put a stop to it," Jack Sanders, 31, said after he shot his aunt to death.

Sanders, a Negro, said his aunt, Susan Arrington, 60, had caused all his trouble by hoodooing him. The woman's body, a pistol wound near her heart and flowers in her hands, was found in a country lane, 14 miles north of here in Jasper County.

Sheriff W. B. Tally, who came here for Sanders, quoted Sanders as saying much of the hoodoo put in left him since the shooting.

Still Our Greatest Strength

Hempstead Residents Have a Chance to Demonstrate Sunday That They Have a Big Heart

By MARY ANITA LASERER
In some laboratory at this very moment, a scientist may be on the threshold of a discovery that could bring us closer to victory over heart disease.

Many battles have been won in this long fight against this nation's leading health menace. New drugs, new methods of surgery, new and highly accurate diagnostic techniques are saving hearts and lives each day.

Through the application of new heart knowledge, some forms of heart disease can now be prevented, some cured, and practically all helped.

Some common sense tips about heart disease can help us all. Don't worry, needless about "symptoms." Instead, see your doctor to find out if you are having trouble that needs correcting. Control your weight. Too few realize the importance of weight control is more vital to health than it is to beauty.

Get enough rest, because it relieves fatigue and lightens the work of your heart. It is good to keep physically fit by exercising regularly, but do it in moderation. In other words, have fun—but act your age. In this day of so many activities and what seems an unbounded amount of worries and frustrations, there should be additional warning against letting tension and anxiety rob your peace of mind.

Seeing may be believing, but even though you can't see a crippled heart, there's no denying the terrible toll that heart disease exacts each year among Americans of all ages. One of the chief problems in research of heart disease is the baffling "blue baby," which has caused so much heartache and suffering among children and parents.

If you're a parent, chances are you're familiar with chicken pox, mumps, measles, and other common childhood diseases. But what do you know about rheumatic fever? You may not realize that it is the cause of more long term disability among children than any other disease.

Every year American women spend about $4,000,000 for lipstick. In the same period of time, men, women, and children invest some $11,000,000 in ball-point pens. And the oil industry spends nearly the combined totals — $100,000,000 — for research and development.

This writer has nothing whatsoever against lipstick, ball-point pens, or the advancements of petroleum research. But when you compare these expenditures with the paltry $31,020,000 we spend each year trying to solve our most deadly riddle, the prevention of heart disease, you can see how comparatively little we are doing in this important field.

The key to heart research is in your hands. Thanks to your support of the Heart Fund, your Heart Association is helping medical science unlock the mysteries of heart disease. For healthier hearts and happier lives for you and your family, give to fight heart disease.

Tomorrow is Heart Sunday. When a volunteer calls upon you to give to your Heart Fund, remember—when you help your Heart Fund, you help YOUR heart.

Can Arrange Measurement of Acreage

Hempstead county farmers can arrange for official measurement of their 1939 cotton acreage allotment, prior to planting time, the County Agricultural Stabilization Committee announced this week.

To get the measurement service which is provided on a cost basis the farmer must file a request with the county ASC office between now and March 31, 1939 according to Mr. Scott, Chairman of the committee.

The rate to be charged for the service in Hempstead has been established at $8.00 per farm, plus 30 cents per acre for the first 50 acres, plus 10 cents per acre for each acre in excess of 50, plus $1.00 for each field or subdivision in excess of one, and payment based on this rate must be made at the time the request for measurement is filed.

"The measurement is purely optional and is offered as a service to growers who prefer to have an official measurement to use as a planning guide," Mr. Scott said.

Two Students Drop Out of Warren School

FRONT ROYAL, Va. (AP) — Two of the 23 Negroes admitted to the previously all-white Warren County High School have dropped out because they could not take a course in cosmetology.

The drop-outs leave the student body at 21. No whites have entered the formerly 1,000-student school.

Supt. Q. D. Gasque said today Joyce Henderson, an 11th grader, and Elizabeth Dean, a senior, he notified school officials they were leaving because they could not get the course they wanted in beauty treatment.

Warren County High has never offered such a course. Gasque said. All courses regularly offered by the school are available, he said.

Both girls plan to return to schools they were attending in Washington and New York while Warren County High was closed for five months under resistance to a defunct massive resistance laws. Neither girl was in school today.

The other 21 Negro students — 13 girls and eight boys — attended classes for the second day. Nine teachers are on duty.

White students failed to show up Wednesday for enrollment when the school opened on an integrated basis under federal court order.

This Cat Likes to Ride on Car Axel

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — A cat with a penchant for perching on car axles is under observation at the Detroit dog pound.

Police noticed the cat when Mrs. Louise M. Stamenoff pulled up to a station and told an officer, "I've been riding around in my car with this cat on my axle for over an hour. He keeps meowing under there. It's annoying. People are stopping and staring at me."

Cat psychology failed, so the police resorted to other means. They squirted the cat with a hose. He jumped off Mrs. Stamenoff's axle and climbed up on the axle of a police ambulance.

Dog pound attendants donned heavy gloves and went in after the cat. They got him.

West Coast Missile Base Has High Hope

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The West Coast's new missile base, now preparing its first satellite shot, may be the spot from which man will break through into outer space.

This possibility was advanced by a space scientist searching for ways to reach nature's escape hatches in the deadly radiation band that encircle the earth.

"The radiation apparently is less intense above the North and South poles," the scientist, Dr. Manfred Elmer of California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory, said in an interview.

"If this is true, all we need is a site from which to launch toward one of the poles, and we already have that at Vandenberg," he said.

Vandenberg Air Force Base, 170 miles to the north, was chosen as the site for several Project Discoverer launching this year because it can hurt satellites southward into polar orbit. No other known missile base can do this. Only to Pacific lies between the base and the South Pole.

Radiation Treatment for Secy. Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors plan to begin radiation treatment today for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' cancer.

The recurrence of Dulles' intestinal cancer was discovered last week when the secretary underwent a hernia operation.

The State Department said Dulles rested well Thursday.

Would Halt Cruises of U. S. Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — For or against ocean cruises should be prohibited for anyone on the federal payroll, including members of Congress, says Sen. John F. Williams (R-Del.).

Williams, in introducing a bill to this effect Thursday, noted that U. S. railroads and airlines already are barred by law from "privilege" special rates to public officials.

Relatives Reap Big Harvest Off of Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — As it does almost every year, nepotism today attracted a spotlight on Capitol Hill.

The ancient political practice of giving government jobs to relatives receives attention annually when the House of Representatives reveals its office payroll.

This year's records show that at least six of the new House members have their wives on the payrolls. The wives' salaries range from $4,074 to $13,344 a year.

In addition, Rep. Steven V. Carter (D-Iowa), a freshman congressman, hired his 10-year-old son, a freshman college student, as an $11,000-a-year assistant.

The Senate refuses to open its payroll records to public scrutiny. Any nepotism there usually is a secret.

"The congressmen's justification for the practice is that the relatives do important work and fully earn their pay."

"We have always been a team," Rep. Leonard G. Wolf (D-Iowa) said, explaining why his wife, Marilyn, is on the payroll for $1,037.81 a month.

The five other new congressmen with wives on the payroll were:

Rep. Robert W. Levering (D-Ohio) (Wife Elleen, $12,527).

Rep. Denver D. Hargis (R-Kan.) (Wife Charles $8,192).

Rep. Ralph Rivers (D-Alaska) (Wife Mitha, $4,800).

Rep. Randall E. Harmon (C-Ind.) (Wife Mary, $4,424).

Rep. William H. Meyer (D-Vt.) (Wife Bertha, $4,047).

Alford Tells Legislature of 'Phony Law'

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark) told the Arkansas Legislature today that minority rule has become "the phony law of the land in America."

Alford called on citizens of all states to unite to strike down "tyranny and despotism as patriots of the American Revolution did nearly 200 years ago."

"The true solution is for every American to dedicate himself to the overthrow of the forces that awaken people in every section of the nation to the threat to states rights," Alford, a firm segregationist, told the legislators in a speech.

He was cheered frequently during the 30-minute address put the loudest acclaim followed his remark that a petition one-half mile long asking for impeachment of members of the U. S. Supreme Court had been submitted to federal authorities in Washington.

He said the petition was signed by persons from throughout the nation.

Alford, who has dedicated recent speeches to an alleged link between Communism and racial disorders, today turned to the U. S. Supreme Court and states rights.

He spent about 10 minutes exalting states rights as "America's greatest heritage" and another 10 minutes attacking the Supreme Court as the greatest threat to the American way of life.

He was particularly critical of Chief Justice Earl Warren, whom he referred to as a "left wing chief justice."

Alford said George Washington had warned against changing the U. S. Constitution by usurpation, the congressman indicated he felt the Supreme Court had changed the Constitution by its 1954 school desegregation ruling.

Alford referred to himself as a representative of a "once-free people" and called for "eternal opposition" to the ideas of super-government and "one-worldism."

As a Little Rock resident and a parent, Alford thanked the Legislature for passing laws which have blocked integration in Little Rock schools.

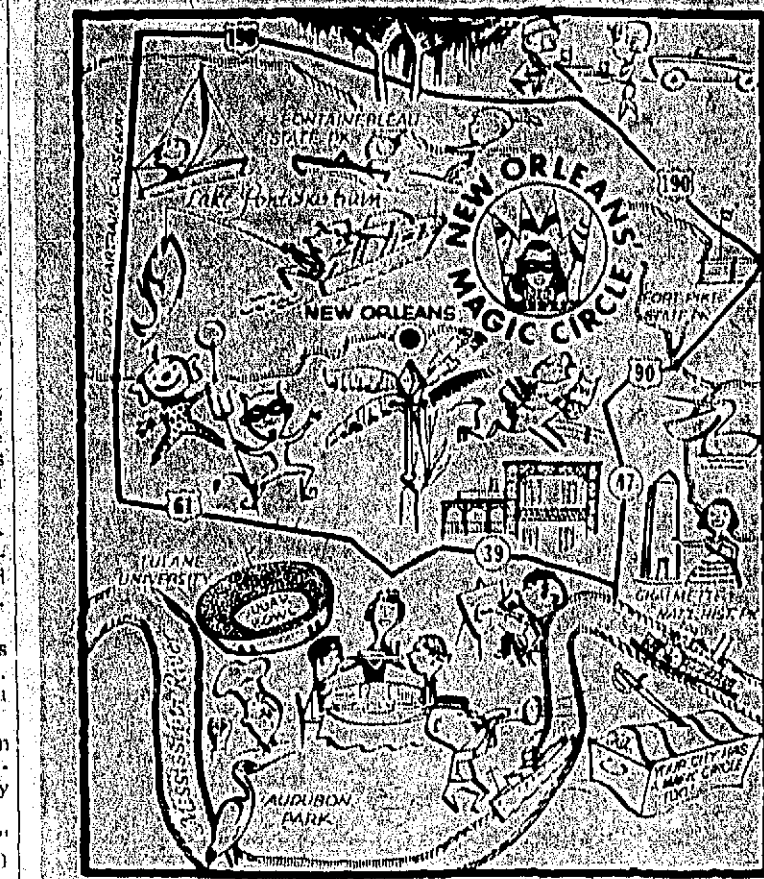

He predicted that any national poll would show residents of all areas prefer states rights over government by court decree.

"The South is the citadel of American independence. At war with closing. We are at war with ideologies that would destroy us—atheistic Communism on the one hand and judicial dictatorship on the other."

"But the voice of the people is becoming increasingly louder, and I predict that the people's right to rule will prevail."

Alford flew here from Jackson, Miss., where he spoke last night to a segregationist meeting. He was approximately a half hour late for his speech before the joint Senate-House session.

New Orleans, Mardi Gras City, Is Top Attraction

ROMANCE AND HISTORY are basic to the glamour of New Orleans. The Mardi Gras City is famed for its Vieux Carre (old French Quarter), gourmet food, Dixieland jazz, the Sugar Bowl at Tulane University, Audubon Park and its bird zoo, the Magic Circle out of New Orleans leads to Chalmette National Historical Park, scene of Andrew Jackson's smashing victory in the War of 1813; Fort Pike State Park, where a shot was never fired; Fontainebleau State Park, a delight for picnicking and water sports. The return is via the new 24-mile Lake Pontchartrain Causeway, longest bridge in the world.

Editor's Note: This is the 12th in a series of suggested highway tour maps which is publishing weekly. The series will cover the South and Southwest during the winter months, and the Northern sections in the spring. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

By EDWARD COLLIER
The glamour of New Orleans is something that must be sensed; it calls for an atmosphere, a knowledge of the Mardi Gras city's colorful, exciting past.

New Orleans is different from the rest of America. It has many faces, changing moods — and ex-ceptional food. Fiction, movies and publicity baroque tend to oversell this sensitive city, and the novice visitor feels let down when he first drives along prosaic Canal Street; only during Mardi Gras (this year February 6-10) is transformed into the glittering thoroughfare of imagination.

Spring Fiesta (April 5-18) when the bustle of Mardi Gras is over, is New Orleans at its sweetest, hospitable best. For this event many of the city's most beautiful mansions, including the restored private homes and gardens hidden from the street in the Vieux Carre are open to the public. My favorite is the Paltos by Candlelight Tour of the French Quarter, a jasmine and rose geranium-scented exploration into the romantic past.

At other times of year the way to really know New Orleans is to start your Magic Circle drives around the city with a Sunday morning visit to historic Jackson Square in the Vieux Carre. First you will want to walk through the park where the U. S. flag was raised in 1803 over the one million square miles that constituted the Louisiana Purchase. Explore a little of the city's most dramatic landmark, the questing statue of Andrew Jackson, whose vow comprises the simple inscription below the hooves of his horse: "The Nation must and shall be prepared."

Across the street is St. Louis Cathedral, completed in 1794. The interior of the Cathedral has a reverent beauty that long will linger in your memory. Next on the agenda is a stop at the opposite corner of Jackson Square for the ritual of coffee and doughnuts at the old French Market where, day and night, townspeople and visitors savor the hot beignets — square doughnuts dunked in sugar and which resemble a cream puff in shape.

By noon the iron picket fence along Jackson Square is lined with the wares of French Quarter artists who have set up their easels on the sidewalk to sketch passers-by.

Sleepy French Quarter
This is the time of day to strike up an acquaintance with the rest of the Vieux Carre, still asleep from a raucous Saturday night that ended at dawn. Only the stalls selling pralines are open. Tightly shuttered are the famed restaurants. Royal Street's countless antique shops, Bourbon Street's famed Dixieland jazz spots and night clubs dedicated to burlesque.

The bus, which has replaced the streetcar labeled "Desire," makes quick, silent stops. The full beauty and charm of the pastel, old-world buildings, with their delicate and

U. S., Mexico Agree on Rio Grande Project

By CHARLES H. GUPTILL
ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — President Eisenhower flew home today, his friendship visit to Mexico, President Adolfo Lopez Mateos climaxed by agreement that a 100-million-dollar dam should be jointly built on the Rio Grande.

The project known as the Diablo Dam has been in the talking stage for 10 years. Now the U. S. Congress must appropriate funds and Mexico must agree to let out to finance its share.

The overall impression of Eisenhower's two-day goodwill visit was that relations between the two countries had been cordial as never before.

A communique issued after five hours of talks between the two presidents, "reconfirmed that relations between Mexico and the United States are excellent and are characterized by a spirit of good neighborliness, mutual understanding and respect."

The communique said, "The Acapulco meeting was a meeting between friends. The two presidents understood and appreciated each other from the beginning. They are determined to continue to collaborate on matters of mutual concern through their governments and through international organizations."

During their talks they ranged over a number of issues affecting the two nations. But both U. S. and Mexican observers felt the visit has done much to do away with old resentments.

The thousands of Mexicans who turned out to welcome Eisenhower or applauded him, continued to do so throughout his activities at this tourist-packed tropical resort city.

A communique also expressed the leaders' agreement that "economic development is an objective of cooperation between nations."

This probably means Mexico will get some financial aid from the United States or international agencies.

Another Near Miss Reported by Airliner

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Capital Airlines plane reported another near miss with an Air Force plane today.

A spokesman for Capital here said the pilot of one of its Constellation—on an Atlanta-bound flight—reported it had to take evasive action to avoid an Air Force C124 cargo plane over Tennessee.

The incident—the fourth of its kind this week—reportedly occurred about 10:58 a. m. at about 8,000 feet in the vicinity of Knoxville, the airline said.

The airliner, flight 981, was en route from Charleston, W. Va., to Atlanta.

Another Capital airliner with 37 passengers aboard reported it had a near miss with a military jet bomber near Charlotte, N.C., Thursday. The pilot said the airliner dived to avoid the bomber. Passengers were shaken up but none was hurt.

The Federal Aviation Agency already has an investigation into the other near collisions.

Suit Filed in Baptist Fuss

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski Chancery Court was asked yesterday to prevent the Pulaski County Baptist Assn. from giving financial aid to a Baptist church set up next to another of the same denomination.

The suit seeks to block funds from being given to a church headed by the Rev. O. C. Robby, son of the late Rev. Wesley Fruden.

Fruden has charged that the new church is an effort to drive him out of the Southern Baptist organization because of his stand against racial integration.

Atty. Kenneth Coffelt filed the suit on behalf of E. A. Laidley, an active member with Fruden in the segregationist Capital Citizens Council.

Eisenhower Memorial Goal Is Reached

WASHINGTON (AP)—The District of Columbia today claimed to be the first to reach its goal in the nationwide drive for three million dollars to build and equip the Eisenhower library in Abilene, Kan.

Banker Robert V. Fleming, chairman of the local committee, reported to Gov. George Docking and former Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas, national cochairmen of the drive, that more than 800 contributions totaling $44,008 had been received here.

Status of the drives in the various states was not available here.

What this country really needs is a rocket that can go as high as today's prices.

Pioneer of Sherrill Dies at Age of 89

SHERRILL, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. J. F. Quattlebaum, 89, member of a pioneer Jefferson County family, died in a fire which destroyed her two-story 12 room house late last night.

The fire spread to an adjoining two-story building and destroyed it also.

No one was injured, but 10 persons had to evacuate the burning buildings in the below-freezing temperatures. A mother and her two small daughters were aided from the second floor of the Quattlebaum home by C. E. Squires, who lived in the other building destroyed.

The fire was discovered by John Gunn, a 74-year-old handyman, who lived in a rear room of the Quattlebaum home. He summoned Squires.

Squires was unable to enter the blazing downstairs, where Mrs. Quattlebaum lived, but he got a ladder and used it to get Mrs. Maureen Byrd and her two daughters, 3 and 5, out of the second story.

Mrs. Squires and her two children, Louann, 1½, and Wade, 7, had time to get out of their upstairs apartment before the fire spread to the second building.

Other occupants also escaped. They were Mrs. Edna Ford, owner of the second building; and Archie Ledbetter, who operated a general store for Mrs. Ford on the first floor. Both had apartments in the building.

The fire caused some heat damage to a nearby truck store building, owned by E. L. Burgess.

Origin of the fire was not determined.

Furniture and equipment were dispatched from nearby Pine Bluff, Pine Bluff Fire Chief George Alfred said when he arrived, the Quattlebaum house was falling in.

The fire was brought under control after about five hours.

Mrs. Quattlebaum's body was found later in her bedroom.

Got Ideas From TV Rackets Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — A 19-year-old drummer, who said he got big time shakedown ideas from reading about the current Senate rackets probes, was held on an extortion charge today in an alleged scheme to get $3,000 from a Manhattan fish bait merchant.

The youth was identified by police as John Watson. He has played the drums with various musical groups around town, officers said.

Watson was accused of threatening Sol Goldberg with trouble from hoodlums if he didn't come across with $3,000, Goldberg, who is in his 60s, sells bait to commercial fishing boats.

Police said the youngster told them he wanted to buy a new set of drums for $1,800, and intended to send the rest of the money to his parents in New Hampshire.

Names of the parents and their whereabouts in New Hampshire were not disclosed by officers.

28,000 Hear Graham in Australia

MELBOURNE (AP) — A crowd of 28,000 tonight heard American evangelist Billy Graham speak at Melbourne's new open air music bowl.

Despite rain it was the biggest audience the evangelist has had since his tour last Sunday.

After he had called on Melbourne people to make decisions for Christ, about 3,000 climbed to the stage and crowded into the aisles. The crowd making decisions became so thick he had to call on them to stop.

"This is one of the largest numbers of people to come to Christ I have ever seen," he said. "You are witnessing an historic moment."

This spring, hats display real brims, real colors and lots of vivid color in a "more hat" silhouette. But hats are not overpowered. There are many small, neat styles for petite women. The straw skimmer (upper left) in cork-colored, neatly milan is by Mr. John. It's banded in striped ribbon. Straw roller (center) by John Fredericks is in a fresh, brilliant blue with white trim. This hat has high crown. The great, big, gorgeous flowered hat (upper right) is done by Sally Victor in Paris pink with feathers and roses blended in a beautiful brim. The hat that makes the most of a profile is by Lily Dache (lower left) in apricot straw. It has folded and manipulated brim with small bow at the back. From Emmo comes this hat in three colors (center): blending straw and fabric. Colors are toast, white and black. Straw is milan and white fabric is crisp organdie. The coolie hat takes on a new look (lower right) as done by Irene in light green with light daisy trim of yellow and blue. Colors are fresh, clear and strong and color combinations are daring.

DOROTHY DIX

Well-off Widow Keeps Cash, Loses "Friend"

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I have a friend I can't understand. She's a widow, well-heeled, and refuses dates of any kind, bachelors or widowers. A very eligible bachelor recently asked her for a loan so he could go into business and she told him, "her money was all tied up." If he had asked me (and I the money), I would have given it without hesitation. I can't get over her passing up such an opportunity to get someplace, with a fine man. She claims her husband worked hard to provide for her and she isn't going to throw the money away. Now, of course, the bachelor has dropped her cold, don't you think she's foolish? — Adele G.

Dear Adele: Your friend is a very wise and discerning woman. Some of her common sense should rub off on you. Don't you realize that the so-called bachelor "friend" was interested in nothing but her money? He probably would have lost it in a business, after all. What solace would she have then for her loneliness? At least she is able to give herself all the comforts and many of the luxuries of life. Since she seems quite happy and content as is, why must you gripe? When a man works hard to provide for his widow, she would be foolish indeed to squander her bankroll just to hear some greedy man whisper sweet nothings in her ear until the money is gone. The tinkle of cash makes sweeter music.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Our married life is exceptional, happy — except for my brother-in-law. He attends college in our town and lives with us. I do his washing, ironing, keep his room clean and serve his meals and all I ask is gratitude. This I don't get. He complains about everything, demands instant service, goes everywhere with us, and has just about taken over our home. Even when he goes to bed, he has the radio on full force and no one can sleep. His mother (a widow) is comfortably off and there's a good school in his own home town. Why should we put up with him? — Julie Dear Julie: Why? You and your husband are a couple of softies, that's why. Furthermore, you're doing the young ingrate no good. This is the time he's training for life in the big, outside world. He should be getting laughed to it. Call a conference. Tell him he's been acting like a perfect idiot, that you're putting up with his antics no longer, and draw a list of rules by which he must abide. These might include: no radio after 10 p. m., taking his own clothes to a laundrette, no special meals, and no tagging along on your dates.

Dear Dorothy Dix: When I attend dances at school or church, I have a wonderful time. But I don't have a real boy friend who calls me up and takes me out on dates and such. I'd give anything to have the phone ring and know a boy was on the other end. I'm in the ninth grade of junior high, so there aren't many older boys available. — Arlene

Dear Arlene: Teen-time is now-time; the more teen-agers live in the present (socially, at least) the better off they are. You're having a marvelous time now. Be happy with that and more abundant pleasures will come with senior high school. You must be a nice kid or you wouldn't have fun at dances and other community affairs. Keep up your spirit.

Judge James H. Pilkinton, Rotary Speaker

The luncheon at the Broadway Hotel Tuesday was attended by thirty five members and two guests.

J. Vernon Fore was program chairman and made a short talk and introduced the guest speaker Hon. James H. Pilkinton, Judge of Sixth Chancery District of Arkansas.

The Alternating Judge is Wesley Howard of Texarkana. Judge Pilkinton makes his home at Hope. The sixth district consists of nine counties. The two judges alternate each six months by dividing the circuit. Judge Pilkinton spoke on the duties of a Chancellor and the various cases brought before their court. He stated that the court was governed by the judge in that he listened to the evidence and rendered a decision according to law. He gave a brief history of the beginning of the court in England.

The court is known as a court of equity and deals with civil cases only. The judge is a capable speaker and his discourse was informative and interesting.

Dr. Chas. A. Hesterly had as his guest Arthur Wilson, his father-in-law from Oneonta, N. Y.

Shower Honors
Mrs. Joseph Schmidt
The monthly meeting of the Business Women's Guild of the First Christian Church was held on Monday evening at the church. Mrs. B. C. Stivers, president, presided and the meeting was opened with the theme song "Evening Prayer" followed with prayer by the president. The program on the theme "The Path of Pilgrimage" was in charge of Mrs. Alfred Cummings. Assisting were Miss Fay Loomis, who spoke on "I am the Church" and Miss Elizabeth Francisco who told the story of the first pastor in Paraguay being ordained by disciples of Christ. The meeting closed with the Missionary Benediction.

During the social hour Mrs. Joseph Schmidt of Washington, D. C. was honored with a pink and blue shower. Her sister, Mrs. Paul Haynie, displayed the lovely gifts that will be sent to Mrs. Schmidt.

A sandwich course and Russian tea was served. Members of the Christian Women's Fellowship were guests.

Tells of Try to Feature a New Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alleged efforts by a Teamster Union official to push a record of singer Tommy Leonetti into Chicago area juke boxes without the singer's knowledge were reported to the Senate Rackets Committee today.

Robert Lindloff, Skokie, Ill., jukebox operator and president of Music Operators of Northern Illinois, a trade association, testified that he turned down requests to feature the record.

Lindloff said the requests came from Joseph Gimco, president of Chicago Teamsters Local 777.

The witness also testified that he and many other jukebox operators "have to" buy records for their jukeboxes from a firm the committee says is gangster run.

Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the special investigating committee, told the senators he interviewed Leonetti and was told "this may have been going on by underworld figures," but that Leonetti didn't know it at the time.

Kennedy quoted the singer as stating that he was managed for a time by a man with underworld connection, of which Leonetti was unaware. He said Leonetti also told him he "came out rather poorly" while the man, whose name was not mentioned, was his manager.

The testimony capped some sharp exchanges in which Kennedy charged that Lindloff was afraid to tell frankly of gangster infiltration on the jukebox industry in suburban Chicago.

Kennedy and Lindloff said the firm which charged premium prices for records was the Lornier Distributing Co. of Chicago, headed by Charles English.

Lindloff testified he and other operators paid five cents a record more than they would have to pay to buy the records from similar companies handling records of various manufacturing firms.

The probes Thursday asked a witness: Had he been told he would be dropped in the river with concrete blocks tied to his feet unless the man then sitting next to him were taken into his vending machine business as a partner?

The witness, Ralph Kelly of Elgin, Ill., hesitated. The hecky man sitting next to him, Rocco Pranno, glared at him.

Kelly replied: "I decline to answer because my answer might tend to incriminate me."

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) thundered: "Are you going to let this fellow keep you under a state of fear for the rest of your life?"

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy waited then said: "This man is too frightened to talk."

The exchange came after James C. Young, a South Elgin tavern owner, said Kelly had taken in Pranno as a partner out of fear of his life. Young testified in the committee's investigation into jukebox and vending machine operations in the Chicago area.

Barney Poss, an Aurora, Ill., jukebox operator, told the committee he stood up to threatening mobsters and lived to stay in business.

Friends of Mrs. C. P. Arnold will be pleased to know that she has returned from Hot Springs where she was a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital and is now a patient in Cora Donnell Hospital.

D. L. McRae Jr. and J. R. Bemis spent a part of this week in Little Rock on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ingram Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ward and Mrs. Ed Lee attended a Farm Bureau membership drive banquet at the W. O. W. Hall in Hope Tuesday night. Mr. Ingram is captain of Wallaceburg (Swope Home) and Blevins townships. Mr. Brown and Mr. Ward, Guy Lee and James Walker are co-workers.

Mrs. W. L. Horton and son, Jimmy, of Hot Springs have been the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ingram and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ingram.

Three Negroes Rob Candy Truck Driver

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Three Negroes robbed a West Memphis candy truck driver of about $700 on Highway 70 near here last night.

Toyd A. Staten, 47, said the three men jumped into his truck and drove him along gravel side-roads for over an hour before opening the truck's cash box and taking a large amount of coins.

Staten told officers after the men had opened the box they stopped the truck and made their getaway in a waiting car.

Three men aboard leaped from the wreckage and ran to safety.

The plane broke in two sections and burned.

Those aboard the Pan American World Airways DC7 were Roger Dinelli of Sausalito, Capt. G. W. Allaman, Menlo Park, and flight engineer Hal Flynn, Redwood City.

Man Can't Forget Horror of Rescue

HOVELAND, Mass. (AP) — The tugboat skipper who cut loose two barges and helped rescue eight persons when an American Airlines plane plunged into the East River at New York two weeks ago can't forget the horror.

"I should have saved more," Capt. Sauriel R. Nickerson moans in his sickbed in his home here.

The 67-year-old seafarer, worn out by the rescue efforts and the 30 sleepless hours that followed while investigators fired questions, was discharged a few days ago from Goddard Hospital in Stoughton. He needs rest, and a strict diet to control a severe case of bleeding ulcers.

His wife says he can't shut out the memory of the passengers he saw swept away in the darkness.

New Orleans

intricate iron filigree balconies can be admired and photographed at leisure. From the French Quarter you drive across Canal Street into the 1950 world of New Orleans, best exemplified by the stunningly modern, multi-colored "Civic Center" buildings, a bold development of an area formerly occupied by slum-like structures. Especially photogenic are the new State Supreme Court Building and the $8 million City Hall, a temple of glass, stone and green turquoise panels.

Stately Beauty

The Magic Circle of New Orleans follows the curve of St. Charles Street, lined for miles by stately live oaks, magnolias and magnificently conservative homes, old and new. The manicured lawns are adorned by a profusion of shrubs and flowers which vary from vivid red poinsettias to lurid purple angelonias. St. Charles Street is divided by a grass centerpiece, and it doesn't seem surprising that it carries the tracks for vintage-type streetcars.

Among the showplaces on St. Charles is Loyola University and its back to back neighbor, Tulane University. The 90-acre Tulane campus reminded me of Texas, where imaginative buildings always seem to be in the process of construction. Particularly impressive is the new dome-shaped auditorium and the colorful modernistic dormitories which are but a few paces from the Sugar Bowl, Tulane's famed stadium.

Our whole family found something of interest and delight in Audubon Park across St. Charles Street from the Tulane campus. Horseback riding, golfing and a small scale railroad, where adults do not have to be accompanied by children, were the first highlights of our Sunday afternoon.

Rare Birds

Even those who ordinarily see only from a duty-to-the-childer standpoint are fascinated by the number of unusual birds that live contentedly in simulated natural habitats. There are the rare whooping cranes, George and George, the most beautiful, beady-eyed vulture I have ever seen; marabou storks from Africa; an emu from Australia. The flamingos are as startlingly pink as any color-mind could demand. One of the attendants told us that they attribute the flamingos' coral glory to a diet liberally sprinkled with paprika.

"Cemetery buffs," an odd but formidable segment of militant American tourists who seek out historic burying grounds, be they old Colonial graveyards in New Orleans or Fort Hill in the Far West, call Metairie Cemetery the most beautiful in the world. At first the visitor is startled by the above ground crypts and tombs, each owned down through the generations by one family. A striking horseback statue of General P. G. T. Beauregard, who ordered the first fired in the Civil War at Fort Sumter, tops the high earthen mound where he is buried. A visit to New Orleans is not complete without seeing one of the pumping stations which keep the city from being inundated when it rains. Miles of canals, mostly covered and unnoted, encompass the city and feed into the Gulf, which are equipped with awesome sized and specially constructed pumping machinery to dump 450,000 gallons of water a minute into Lake Pontchartrain. One of those most accessible to visitors is at the edge of City Park.

Battle Shrine

The Magic Circle out of New Orleans is via St. Claude Avenue (State 39) to Chalmette National Historical Park. Here has been preserved and enshrined the battlefield where General Andrew Jackson and his raggedy crew of soldiers, frontiersmen, Indians, laws and people and Jean Baptiste's pirates scored the greatest and most decisive victory of the War of 1812. Tensely varied metal plaques mark the various stages of the siege and the battle where 2,000 British troops were killed in comparison with American losses of seven killed and six wounded.

Focal point at Chalmette is the 100-foot spire, fashioned after the Washington Monument. My boys talked me into biking to the top of the shaft for the contradictory but rewarding view. Below you can visualize the course of the battle, a few hundred years away to the South are the protecting levees of the Mississippi to the east and west are the huge but photogenic industrial plants that produce aluminum and sugar. On a clear day you can see the New Orleans skyline.

A touch of glamour not evident elsewhere at U.S. National Monuments or parks is on top here for Sunday afternoon visitors when eight beautiful girls from Chalmette High School, dressed in colonial-type uniforms and called the "Little Colonels," serve as guides. Fort Pike Preserved.

From Chalmette the Magic Circle turns north and east (State 47 and U.S. 90) for Fort Pike State Park, built after 1819 to defend the navigation channels to New Orleans. Historians, boys and camera fans are enthralled although a shot was never fired from the massive brick walls. The fort was abandoned after the Civil War.

Circling east (U.S. 190) the next stop is Fontainebleau State Park, a favorite spot for both tourists and New Orleans residents most of the year. Located in what locally is called the "Ozone Belt," Fontainebleau's lure is in its majestic moss-hung live oaks and pines that go down to the wide white sand beach of Lake Ponchartraine. Sun bathing, swimming, water skiing and fishing are favorite pastimes.

The Magic Circle returns to New Orleans via the new Lake Ponchartraine Causeway. The 24 miles across this longest of bridges in the world is a never-to-be-forgotten sensation. It has all of the elements of going out to sea, except that you are driving your automobile 50 miles an hour when you lose sight of land.

OUTDOORS

with John Alden Knight

Have you ever stopped to wonder why it is that 10% of the fishermen catch 90% of the fish? And having wondered about these dismal statistics, do you ask yourself why you in particular are not included in the top ten? Believe me, there are definite reasons why the top ten has the membership that it happens to have.

First of all let's get one thing settled; before worrying too much about polishing up your capabilities which should enable you to join that august minority, ask yourself quite frankly whether catching more fish than the other fellow is vitally important to the pleasure you derive from a day's fishing. Answer that one honestly and maybe, without knowing it, you have also the answer to the first two questions as well.

In the course of a busy lifetime of fishing, I have known quite a few of the top ten. All of them have one outstanding characteristic — they are tireless fishermen, devoting every single minute of every fishing day to one single-minded, all important end — catching fish. No amount of physical effort is too great to be expended on that one vital result to catch more fish than the other fellow.

As this is written, there is one man who comes to mind immediately. When I first knew him he was a very mediocre fisherman. His casting was atrocious, not even fair to middling. In trout fishing, his knowledge of stream insects and their artificial counterparts was pitifully rudimentary. He chose the wrong flies, almost invariably, for existing conditions. His technique on the stream lacked the finesse of any seasoned angler. Yet, at the close of the day he had caught more fish than anybody.

Another man comes to mind, one who has won more tournament prizes than anybody I know. I have seen this fellow in action a great many times. He is a fair caster and he handles his fish with a vigor that whips them quickly or breaks them off quickly.

But here in lies his success — every day, week after week, he and his guide are hard at it. Where the average angler shows his lure to one good fish man will cast to 25. The law of averages is working for him all the time. Thus, he wins prizes.

Some years ago, there lived a monster brown trout in a stream which flows fairly near my home. He had been hooked a few times (my son, Dick, once played him for about two hours) but he seemed to have a charmed life. Estimates as to his weight ran from eight to twelve pounds.

While others were catching trout to their heart's content, I spent my evenings after evening staking this fish. For two seasons I spent my time studying his habits. No doubt it would have been fairly easy to pick him up on live bait as he was

Prescott Girls Take Hope Out of Tournament

Prescott senior girls and junior boys basketball teams advanced to the finals of District 7-W tournament being held in the Gordon gym by taking victories last night.

The Curly Wolves juniors defeated DeQueen 40-18 and will play Arkadelphia tonight.

Prescott senior girls edged the Hope Ladycats 47-42 and will meet the Texarkana Razorbacks tonight for the championship and the right to play in the state meet.

Joyce Vines led the Hope squad with 24 points, Judy Batelli made 14 and Ida Nell England 4. E. Lavender paced the winners with 24, Harris looped 13 and M. Lavender 10.

Hope led 11-10 the first period, it was tied 19-19 at the half and Hope led 33-30 at the end of the third quarter. With a minute and a half to play, Prescott led 44-42 and put the freeze on. Hope fouled Harris who made her first shot and missed the second, 45-42. With 30 seconds remaining Hope fouled E. Lavender who sank both free tosses for a safe 47-42 score and the game ended that way.

It was a dismal night for Hope teams. At Smackover the Buckaroos blasted the Bobcats 64 to 44 and the local Juniors couldn't do much better dropping a 25 to 15 decision.

Tonight the Bobcats entertain the Magnolia Panthers at Jones Field House.

Warm waters of the Gulf Stream pass near the New England coast but have little direct effect on winter temperatures because prevailing winds blow from the land.

a steady feeder, but I wanted to take him, if possible, on a dry fly. At long last, patience paid off. The fact that he smashed my light tackle with a vigorous slap of his big tail after I had played him for perhaps 15 minutes in no way diminished the sense of eternal satisfaction I derived from coaxing him into taking an artificial fly.

Again, there was a largemouth bass who lived in a Vermont lake. We located him accidentally. There was an open cove near a boat landing and the only cover in this cove was a large sunken log. One day, expecting nothing, I cast a bass bug over this log. Out from under it came a bass that looked like a submarine. He drifted up slowly, inspected the bug, and retired to his hiding place under the log.

For two weeks I concentrated on that big bass. My guide and I spent hours watching him, studying his habits. We saw him feeding and learned his preferences. Then we spent our evenings at the fly-tying table, building fly-rod lures to match. Sure I hooked him on the last evening of my stay in camp. Forthwith, he smashed my terminal tackle under his log. The fact that I failed to land him does not detract from the pleasure I found in outwitting him.

So, you want to join the top ten. All right, go ahead and have fun. By choice I'll stay down somewhere in the more popular 90 per cent. I like it better down there. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy indeed.

Disagrees With Reader About Show

TELEVISION IN REVIEW
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Immediately after CBS-TV's Playhouse 80 Thursday night, a complete stranger (come to think of it, have you ever run into a partial stranger) called me up long distance.

"Did you see that Playhouse 80?" he said. "One of the greatest things I've ever seen."

"Where are you?" I said. "You don't know me," he said. "But I read you every day. I just wanted to say it was one of the greatest things I've ever seen."

"Where are you?" I said. "Indiana," he said, "absolutely one of the greatest."

"Where in Indiana?" I said. "Columbus, Indiana," he said. "It was so real. Really great. You know, I've never done anything like this, but I had to tell you."

"Well, to tell you the truth I never did anything like it either and in a way, it was kind of flattering. It's kind of nice to know there's one person out there reading you—that is, aside from the numerous who write anonymous old ladies who write indignant letters in grime on the backs of slightly used Updecha biscuits."

Anyway to get on with it, Loring Mandel's "The Raider," the Playhouse 80 entry, was an engrossing drama about a corporation proxy fight, acted with some fire and directed with skill. But I'm afraid I'll have to disagree a bit with my friend in Indiana because its ending was a cheat which spoiled it a good deal.

"The Raider" posed an absorbing problem, but it never came to grips with that problem. Whether loyalty to an organization should override every other loyalty, be it loyalty to friends or to a personal code.

It is a problem increasingly cropping up in our post-war fiction—"The Caine Mutiny" and "From Here To Eternity," for example, both felt despairingly enough, on the side of organization. And in an even more minor way "The Raider" did Thursday night was to gnaw on the problem, but leave the swallowing of the problem to its audience. What it lacked, as a result, was dramatic resolution, genuine climax, a real wholeness. It is perhaps significant that it was produced by Herbert Brodwin, who several seasons back produced, another play, "Thunder in Washington," that also caused some controversy by its shy-dogger ending.

The actual mechanics of the play, as I said, were quite good with Paul Douglas, Frank Lovejoy, Donald Crisp and Rod Taylor the principal players. Okay, Indiana—still friends.

One note on the magic of television: CBS-TV's Yancy Derringer, in which mfwyz yk, emerged with his hat on.

The Channel Swim: The CBS film division will videotape a jazz show on April 3 that'll feature Miles Davis and Charlie Mingus groups and Billie Holiday for its upcoming series, "Holiday For A Story." The new series produced by Robert Herridge—also will offer a ballet show, Eugene O'Neill's "In The One," City de Maupassants "Place of Sins," a dramatization of the death of Socrates and the Lee J. Fogelin stories about the Hudson Street section of Manhattan.

Clare Booth Luce is narrator of the test film for another proposed CBS film adventure series, "The Diplomat," which has the okay of the State Department. ABC-TV will launch reruns of the Gale Storm show in a daytime spot on April 13. The Gale Storm night-time show, folding on CBS-TV in June, will switch to ABC-TV at nighttime next fall.

The new Florence Henderson-Bill Hayes musical show which bows in on NBC-TV in late March will be called "Play of the Week"—The opener will feature Genevieve as an exchange student in a Midwest library who falls in love with a hobo—Edward Robinson Sr. and Jr. will co-star for the first time on April 2 in a CBS-TV "Zane Grey Theatre" episode, "Loyalty."

Hugh Griffith, who played in last week's CBS-TV Playhouse 80, will co-star with George Grizzard in the March 9 CBS-TV "On the Beach" show, Mystery of Mrs. Murphy. Sloan Simpson, former wife of New York's former mayor William O'Dwyer, has signed in for an upcoming ABC-TV Naked City, "Nothing But The Truth."

Salary Hikes at UA Recommended

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Legislative Joint Budget Committee has recommended higher maximum salaries for personnel at the University of Arkansas.

Sen. Clifton Wade of Fayetteville said the university's proposed $2,200,000 appropriation of $2,200,000 would not be changed. The suggested modification would permit the university board of trustees to raise salaries to the maximums as long as the money was available, Wade said.

The pending university appropriation bill earmarks $4,100,000 a year for salaries.

University President John Tyler Caldwell would be authorized a maximum salary of $20,000 a year, compared with $17,000 recommended in a schedule adopted earlier by the Legislative Council.

The maximum for football coach Frank Broyles would remain at $17,500. Athletic Director John Barnhill was recommended for a ceiling of $13,000 instead of $12,000.

The Joint Budget Committee voted 5 to 2 for the change. The dissenting committee members were Reps. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County and Raymond L. Hays of Cleveland County.

Looters Follow St. Louis Tornado

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Looters have followed the tornado that dealt death and destruction to St. Louis Feb. 10.

Two arrests were made after looters were seen hauling TV sets, radios and even radiators, pipe and a sink from the shattered 4200 block of Washington Avenue yesterday.

Part of it was taken from the apartment of Arthur Lev Buggs, whose wife and son perished in the storm.

Police said warrants charging Jimmy McLittle with three counts of stealing and with trespassing will be sought. McLittle, a resident of the stricken area, was arrested at the scene. Police said the owner of some of the property denied McLittle's statement that he had permission to remove it.

Another man was arrested in a pickup truck containing some of the loot. Police were investigating his story that he bought the property from several Negroes who helped him load it at the scene.

No Arguments in 75-Married Years?

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Crafton celebrated their 75th wedding anniversary Thursday night almost had their first argument.

Crafton, 63, is a retired railroad man. Mrs. Crafton is 69.

A reporter asked, "Have you ever had an argument?"

"Nope," he said.

"Not even a little one?"

"Nope."

"Who is boss in the family?" the reporter asked.

"He is," she said.

"She is," he said.

With an argument looking them in the face, Crafton quickly smoothed it over.

"We both are," he said.

Peace returned.

'Mixed-Up Kid' Is Seized by Police

CHICAGO (AP) — A ministry's son, described by a police official as a "terribly mixed up kid," was seized by police Thursday night and charged with attempting to extort $3,000 from a doctor, a next door neighbor.

Police arrested Robert McQueen, 19, in a telephone booth in New Trier High School in suburban Winnetka as he talked to his intended victim, Dr. John G. Bellows, of suburban Glenview. Police said it was the third threatening call McQueen had made to Bellows in three nights.

Police Chief Arthur H. Panlley said McQueen admitted first phoning Bellows on Tuesday night, telling the physician to pay $3,000 "or else your five children will not be alive at the end of the month."

Bellows, an eye specialist, has five children ranging in age from 6 to 12 years.

McQueen's father is the Rev. Thomas C. McQueen, pastor of the Glenview Union Church. The youth was held in $5,000 bond on a attempted extortion charge.

News Briefs

BRUSSELS (AP) — Mine owners and union chiefs gathered in Brussels today to open negotiations for settlement of the coal strike which has idled 100,000 workers. The miners are out in support of 6,500 of their mates threatened with loss of their jobs if government plans to shut down antiquated coal mines.

LONDON (AP) — Britain will increase air force funds by $66,500,000 next year, but the number of men in the Royal Air Force will be cut. Personnel will be cut by 23,000 from last year's figure of 203,000.

MANILA (AP) — City Auditor Jose Prestina is urging officials of the Manila zoo to rename two kangaroos they're being given by the Australian government. Adam and Eve are the animals' names. "Sacrilegious," Prestina complained.

The number of skin divers in the United States has increased from 250,000 to a million in the last five years.

STRENGTHEN YOUR FAITH

Through Regular Church Worship

HIM

... as far as you can see,"

boasted one man to the other. But the other man, obviously not too impressed, simply pointed Heavenward and said — "Bob — how much do you own up that way?" What a point he made, what a challenge! For when the final bell rings it won't make much difference how much earthly real estate one owns. A good church attendance record will serve much better. All we have or hope to have belongs to God. So, why not readjust your living habits? Form a pay-

as-you-go corporation with God and try to get a deed to a little corner of heaven. The Lord

gives a guaranteed title to every worthy person.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs
the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
